NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Lee & Shepard send up three new books which they have just brought out. The Princes of Art is a translation from the French by Mrs. S. R. Urbino. The Life of George Peabody, by Phebe A. Hannaford, is a well written record of that noble man's life—its endeavors, successes, and above all, its princely charities that have made his name revered, not only in his own country, but in England, the land of his adoption, where his sympathy for the poor and suffering, as shown in his magnificent donations, have won him a place in the British as well as the American heart. Colorado Silver Mines. A new and rich silver mining district has recently been discovered in Colorado, fifteen miles north west of Central city, on the western boundary of Boulder County, and forty miles from Denver. About thirty ledges have been struck, and six or eight uncovered, showing the three fissure silver veins, and pay rock crevices from two to five feet in width. Three or five hundred men are on the ground, and buildings are going up rapidly. Tons of rich ore are being hauled from the mines to smelting works at Blackhawk, daily. Three regular coaches run to and from the mines each day, carrying large numbers of passengers. The lodes so far developed are said to indicate that this is one of the richest silver regions yet discovered on this continent.

CERTIFICATES OF CURES.

This is to certify that Mrs. Manchester has doctored in my family for six years with marked success. She has cured my wife of dropsy in its worst form; my daughter of spinal disease of five years standing; a sister of deafness and catarrh; my father of blindness. And I would recommend her to the public as a skillful physician, and every way worthy of patronage.
JOHN ROBSON.
Portland, Maine.

This is to certify that Mrs. Manchester has cured me of scrofula or hip disease of five years standing. I have consulted the best professions in the country and have derived no benefit. I called on Mrs. Manchester ten months ago, and commenced treatment, the sores, three in number, have healed and I have thrown by my crutches, and am now a well man. I am confident if I had not consulted this lady I should always have been a cripple.

Let all invalids give her a fair trial, and I have no doubt you will be benefitted.

A Case of Spinal Disease Cured.

Dear Madame.—When you were in this place last summer, I called you to examine my case, which was spinal disease. I had not used my limbs to stand on them for three years. I have consulted eight or ten Physicians, none of them done me any good, but I still grew worse, but by your skill I am now a happy woman, as I have full power and strength of my limbs. I must say to the afflicted go and consult Mrs. Manchester, and give her a fair trial, and you will be well paid.
Very truly yours,

THE STATE ELECTION.

The interest excited in the Senatorial and other issues which are just now receiving so much attention, should not be permitted to render us unmindful of the importance of the approaching State election. Less than two weeks now remain for completing the preparations for bringing out a full vote, and no confidence in former heavy majorities or false ideas of the necessity for exertion should cause the relaxation of our strongest efforts to gain a victory worthy of those we have won in the past.

The reaction after the exciting political episodes of the war and the more recent struggle provoked by the treachery of Andrew Johnson, induces many to underrate the importance of the present campaign, in which the principles involved, although affecting the highest moral and material interests of the country, are presented solely on their own merits and unaccompanied by the accessory conflicts which stimulate the enthusiasm of a great national canvass.

Our opponents are fully aware of this natural tendency and have directed all their efforts towards securing for themselves the advantages resulting from Republican indifference or inactivity. Their scheme of a "people's nomination" was based upon a belief in this apathy among the members of a party long accustomed to exciting contests, many of whom they expected to divert from the monotonous path of duty, by raising a new banner on the old staff and appealing by the very audacity of their movement to the support of the fickle and impulsive. In this campaign they are relying especially upon a decrease in the Gubernatorial vote. All their slight hopes of making a gain are centred there. With the exception of a little premature, boasting in the First District, where they will be handsomely defeated, they make no pretensions of securing a Representative to Congress. Messrs. Blaine, Frye and Hale will walk over the course and the bare mention of Hon. John A. Peters' antagonist in this district—MARCELLUS EMERY—indicates the inevitable rebuke which will be administered when this man—whose disloyalty so nearly cost him his life at the hands of an outraged community—has the hardihood to present himself for the suffrages of the people.

Gen. Roberts is the great gun of the enemy. His lack of political prominence renders him less obnoxious than any of the old leaders, throughout the State where he is comparatively unknown, and the mantle of a short military record will be stretched to the limits of possibility to screen his recent party affiliations from the eyes of the soldiers. Their utmost hope is in decreasing our majority, and they are pleased at the introduction of any issue which will divert attention and strength from the opposition to his election.

Our friends should recognize these facts and invest the Gubernatorial election with the prominence to which it is entitled. Our sister States throughout the Union have long been accustomed to gather inspiration from the glorious majorities rolled up by the Republicans of Maine, and they are now watching for our annual election, when they expect to see the old flag emerge from the conflict as grandly and irresistibly victorious as ever. Let us see to it that they are not disappointed. We are battling to-day for the same principles of truth and justice for which we have so often and so successfully fought, and with the slight exertion which all should be willing to make, we can sustain the proud record of the past.

We have for our standard-bearer a man of sterling principles and unwavering patriotism, who has demonstrated his fitness for the discharge of public duties by an unblemished career in positions of high responsibility, and who is eminently worthy of the hearty and generous support which he will receive at the hands of the great party which has selected him. Even his opponents are compelled to acknowledge the excellence of his character, one of the most prominent leaders of the Democracy declaring in the late Convention in this city, that he had known SIDNEY PERHAM for years and that he was as honest a man as ever lived, the only fault which he could find being in the fact that he was one of those men who would carry out his convictions of duty in spite of any and every influence which might be brought to bear upon him.

Such a tribute extorted from a bitter political opponent speaks volumes. The Republicans of Maine have no fear of a candidate who cannot be swerved from his convictions, but recognize in him a trustworthy executive of the laws which may be framed by the representatives of the people, without truckling or pandering to vice for the sake of political favor.

Let every member of the party go to work in earnest for the few days intervening before election and we will silence the feeble batteries of the enemy, and ring out such a peal of triumph as shall convince those who are waiting to hear from the Dirigo State, that we have not forgotten how to set an example for them to follow.

MUNITIONS OF WAR FOR THE CUBANS. It is reported from authentic sources that valuable supplies of arms and ammunition, under the charge of Lieut. Col. Lopez Queralta, have reached the Cuban army in the Villas district. They were landed by the steamer Salvador in charge of an experienced English navigator. The materials of war on board, which were all safely received by the forces, consisted of 1500 muskets, 1200 machetes, 200,000 metallic cartridges, 2½ tons of lead in bars, and clothes, shoes and medicines in abundance. No powder was sent, as it was stated that the forces in that region had an ample supply. It is supposed that by this time the Salvador has landed a second expedition at another point of the island.

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS. The August report of the Bureau of Statistics will show that the total exports for the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1870, were $420,516,951; total re-exports, $30,427,124; total imports, $462,355,040; total excess of imports, $11,408,074.

The Democratic Convention in the second District of Maine, held at Auburn on Tuesday, nominated Alvah Black, of Paris, as candidate for Representative to Congress.

WAR NOTES.

The Tribune's Paris correspondent gives a severe account of the intolerance of the French journals. He says that the Gaulois proposes that women who do not wear mourning in the streets should be insulted, and that the Figaro having complained that only 2000 arrests had been made, replied to the Prefect's statement that the prisons were full: "If you can't lodge all the Prussian spies, shoot them and you will have more room." The most incredible statement however, is that the same journal proposes supplying the Prussians with poisoned provisions.——The citizens of Havre have forwarded an address to Gen. Trochu, offering to send him a corps of volunteers to assist in the defence of the capital.——It is stated that Gen. Failly was deprived of his command for having overlooked and left at Chalons 100 cannon, which would have fallen into the hands of the enemy but for the precaution taken by Bazaine, in having the camp thoroughly inspected after the evacuation.——A Frankfort correspondent writes that great progress in the siege of Strasbourg has been made since the change of commanders. He alleges that the fortress had received supplies and that several opportunities for a successful assault had been grossly neglected by the former commanding officer.——A dispatch from Carlsruhe states that the Bishop of that city, actuated by a desire to stop the effusion of blood at Strasbourg, went to Schillengheim and had an interview with the chief of the Prussian staff urging that the bombardment was contrary to the laws of humanity and modern warfare, the inhabitants having been denied leave to withdraw from the city. The Bishop obtained 24 hours cessation of the bombardment for negotiation with the Governor of Strasbourg, who was invited to come out and examine the preparations made by the Prussians for continuing the siege. As the Prussian commander was escorting the Bishop to Strasbourg his flag of truce was riddled with bullets. The bombardment was resumed and is continued with guns of the largest calibre, rendering the reduction of the city merely a matter of time.——The French say that the district between Rheims, Mezieres, Sedan and Montmedy will be the scene of the next general action.——The London Times agrees with the Prussians that France must be taught to know the power of her neighbors. The Times says Marshal McMahon's extraordinary move may have delayed the Crown Prince's advance on Paris, but it has also made that advance at any time hereafter easy.——The London papers are perfectly befogged as to the position of the hostile armies as the late telegrams made the confusion more confounded.——Gens. Frossard and Bourbaki have been wounded.——King William telegraphed on Monday that an action occurred on Sunday at Lezanne between the 3d regiment of Saxon Horse, supported by a squadron of the 18th Hussars, and six squadrons of French chasseurs, in which the Prussians were victorious; the French commander being wounded and taken prisoner.——Marshal Bazaine is reported to have sent a dispatch to his wife, saying: Do not leave Versailles; there will be no danger. All goes better and better here.——H. Gaillardet's dispatch of Monday night stated that the Ministry were on the eve of departure for Tours and that the Emperor had been invited to accompany them, but responded that his place was with the army now in the neighborhood of Verdun, where a great battle is imminent.——A series of bloody engagements had taken place in the wooded region between Verdonnes and Stenay, but nothing decisive was yet known.——All of the workshops in Paris were closed on Monday.——A London correspondent says: I repeat my warning that there is imminent peril of Russian intervention at no distant day in this war. St Petersburg papers of the 22d inst formally deny that the C[illegible] has in any way recognized the conduct of [illegible] which he is [illegible] that Russia [illegible] liberty [illegible] the interests of the European [illegible] and her own destinies.——The commander of the third military circumscription has formally interdicted the distribution of German newspapers through the mails.——The Slavic journals in Austria openly denounce the progress of the [illegible] and call upon Russia to [illegible] the Austrian government [illegible].

The programme has been arranged for each day and among the exercises will be lectures and papers from some of the leading agriculturists of the State, to be followed by discussions. Will give you a report as they come off.

Thursday will be occupied as a field day, the whole Board and visitors accepting an invitation from the citizens of the village, and taking a carriage tour through the county to Sebec Lake and returning by a different route, thus obtaining some idea of the agricultural condition and capabilities of this section of the State.

The session then adjourned to Mayo's Hall in Dover, and resolved itself into

FARMER'S CONVENTION.

The meeting was called to order by D. H. Thing, the Vice President of the Board and an Address of welcome to the Board and Convention was delivered by Calvin Chamberlain, Esq., of Foxcroft, the member from the Maine State Society. Remarks of welcome were also made by A. M. Robinson, of the Piscataquis Central Society, and A. G. Lebroke, Esq., of Foxcroft.

Brief responses were made by the chairman, and Prof. Fernald of the Agricultural College, thanking the speakers for their pleasant and cordial words of welcome.

The first regular paper of the session was then read by Col. Swett of Paris, the member from Oxford; subject: Culture of the Apple and Apple Trees. We have not room for full notes. He said we must select the kind of soil peculiar to the variety to be cultivated.— The best is a strong, deep, slaty soil impregnated with iron and copperas. Granite soil is also good. Prefers seedling native stocks grafted near the ground. Had purchased apples years ago for five cents per bushel. Not so much depends upon preparation of soil, if it is dry, as upon planting and after cultivation. Native stock is best, but if impossible to obtain could put up with New York trees. Gave several examples of paying orchards in Maine. All should plant trees—the old, the middle aged and the young—for they may all live to receive the benefits. Care must be exercised in transplanting not to injure their roots, and also in planting them out. The holes should be deep and broad, wider than the roots. Cut all broken roots with a sharp knife. Adjust all the roots in natural and regular shape, and cover with fine mould.— Keep all trees mulched as far as the roots extend and the trees generally will grow all that is necessary. It requires a man of good judgment to know how to prune properly. The top should be formed at about four feet from the ground. Small limbs may be cut off in June and July, large ones in the fall—never prune in the spring. Gave a list of varieties for general cultivation, and some remarks upon packing and marketing.

The paper was laid upon the table for future consideration and discussion.

MOVEMENTS OF THE GREAT ARMIES.

PRINCE FREDERICK CHARLES.

London, 30. It was reported several days ago that Prince Frederick Charles would return and go in pursuit of McMahon. This report seems to be gaining strength. It is supposed the Prince has been led to depart from his original plan of operations because his communications would be seriously endangered with so large an army in his rear.

THE CORRESPONDENTS

[illegible] are faring badly. Austin, of the London Times, is imprisoned at Rheims, [illegible] of the Graphic is imprisoned at Nancy and Holdsworth of the News has been escorted back to Paris under guard.

A SKIRMISH.

The Times this morning says that on the [illegible] German detachments routed six detachments of French cavalry near Buzany, in the department of the Ardennes. The Germans belonged to the 4th army, which is now scouring the eastern departments to prevent communication between McMahon and Bazaine. The Prussians say that the Paris telegrams purporting to come from Bazaine are fraudulent, as he is entirely isolated.

THE NEW CONCENTRATION.

London, 30. The following from the War Office is just received—

There are nearly 900,000 men now in the triangle formed by the lines running from Rheims to Rethel and Vouziers. Bazaine is not shut up. He has 120,000 men and McMahon's 150,000 strong. They are stealing two marches on the Prince Royal, who is two days ahead of Prince Frederick Charles. It is hoped that the latter cannot come up in time. Fifty thousand men left Paris on Monday for the vicinity of Rethel. It is said that the Prussian force there is 600,000 strong.

BELGIUM PROTECTING HER FRONTIER.

Brussels, 30. Belgian troops are hastening to the frontier from all quarters. A great battle between the French and Prussians is apparently imminent, and the services of the Belgian troops may be necessary to protect the country from invasion.

THE PRUSSIANS BETWEEN THE FRENCH ARMIES.

London, 30. A correspondent telegraphs that not only has McMahon failed to form a junction with Bazaine, but that the wedge of the Prussians has been driven between the two armies, and is now thicker than ever before, and McMahon finds himself separated from Bazaine by two powerful German armies instead of one. The twenty-seventh regiment of Chasseurs D'Afrique, commanded by Marquis De Galifet, attacked two regiments of Saxon dragoons of twice the number near Mouzon, and after a sharp fight succeeded in utterly routing them with considerable loss. It is still believed here that McMahon will continue to persevere in his endeavor to force his way to Metz, notwithstanding the obstacles in his path.

A GREAT BATTLE NEAR STENAY, HEAVY LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES.

New York, Aug. 30. A private dispatch just received from London, says that a great battle is going on. The fighting has been in progress for the last forty-eight hours, but the result is still uncertain.

The engagement is believed to have covered miles of wooded ground between Stenay and Verdun. The losses were very heavy on both sides.

Brussels, Aug. 30. The investment of Longway by the Prussians reported yesterday is denied. McMahon's headquarters is at Sedan.

THE EXPELLED GERMANS.

Paris Aug. 30. Much confusion has been created here by the forced departure of Germans. The journals however felicitate the government upon the measure which will ensure the retreat of many of the enemies of this country. La Liberte says that the hour of has arrived. The situation has the aspect that a battle must now take place, in the valley of Ardennes, and perhaps from there to Metz.

The Prussians understand how grave the events have become, for their defeat is fatal. We must soon know as we have reason to believe that a battle is raging now, if the Prussians are repulsed; they cannot march on Paris but must retreat behind the Moselle.

France every moment grows more formidable, she is preparing new armies, even now a vast number of new regiments are ready to take the field. Defeat cannot subdue us.

The Opinione Nationale says,

WAR TO THE LAST.

Let not one German re-cross the Rhine for centuries. Let Germany remember, that the enemies may enter but cannot leave France.

The Bois du Boulogne has been closed to the public, as it is filled with cattle.

The Journals say that in case of a siege

FOREIGN AMBASSADORS

will all reside in some city of the Provinces.

LOUIS AND I.

London, Aug. 30. The Prince Imperial was at Sedan, on Sunday night, where the Emperor was also expected. A force of German Uhlans were at the time only nine miles south of that place.

MINISTER WASHBURNE.

London, Aug. 30. Mr. Washburne the American Minister, has a hard time of it, the Germans in France are under his protection, and every German who is arrested under the provisions of the recent proclamation of Gen. Trochu, demands at once to be taken before Minister Washburne for examination.

The Prussians entered Vouziers, on the heels of the retreating French.

King William's route to Paris is by the upper Marne and Meuse.

Prussians of all ranks have been enrolled for the defence of the city.

Paris, Aug. 30. La Patrie to-day in an editorial says, military events of the utmost importance are now preparing.

The news from the army of McMahon, continues excellent and has not been for one instance deceived by the movements of the Prince Royal, he has understood that the Prince meant to over reach his army, and he has therefore kept in advance of the Prussians.

The correspondent of La Liberte, writes that the

has gone to Mezieres, where he will remain until further orders. Mezieres is considered impregnable, it contains a strong garrison and ample supplies of munitions, and provisions.

Paris, Aug. 30. Measures have been taken to and tear up the railways around Paris, promptly on the approach of the enemy.

The Opinione Nationale demands that as the Prussians shoot the country people France should teach Prussia that if that practice continues she will take no prisoners and that the war will become one of extermination.

The population of the suburbs of Paris seemed panic stricken at the first news of the rapid approach of the Prussians and crowds of the country people living near rushed into the city with all their effects. Calm reflection, however, soon succeeded and the same persons lately so terrified are now energetically preparing the city for defense.

Great interest is manifested in the Republican State Convention in Missouri, which meets at Jefferson City to-day. Gov. McClurg and Lieut.-Gov. —The Congregational Churches propose to signalize this memorial year by special generosity. Memorial books and jubilee memorial medals can be seen and procured at Duren's book-store.

—The one-steer team was in town yesterday. It is an economical rig, and for a light market wagon we cannot see why one ox is not as good as two.

EXCURSION. The Universalist Society and Sunday School of this city will make an excursion over the E. & N. A. R. R. to Lincoln Center, starting at 7 o'clock this morning and returning at 6½ P. M.

—We publish on our fourth page to-day a list of premiums offered by the Bangor Horticultural Society, at its coming exhibition in City Hall. We learn that the exhibition promises to be one of the most successful ever held in this city.

—The little daughter of James Valentine, residing on Ohio street, while playing in a barn chamber yesterday, made a misstep and pitched out of the window to the ground, a distance of ten or twelve feet, but strange to say, escaped serious injury.

—We find the following in the Portland Press: "Mrs. Dyer, the accomplished organist of Hammond Street Church, Bangor, presided at the organ in State Street Church, in Portland, Sunday. Her performance upon the instrument were so acceptable that the Music Committee have invited her to become the organist of that church."

—The Congregational, Methodist, Baptist and Free Baptist Societies of Dexter, will arrive here by special train at about 9 o'clock this morning, and will be received by members of the societies and escorted to the Fair Park [illegible] and grounds. All members of the above societies are requested to [illegible] and make the occasion as pleasant as possible.

—At the reception of the Misses Safford at the Bangor House on Saturday evening, the company was favored with a song by Mr Staples of Winthrop, in which her fine voice and artistic execution appeared to much advantage and were highly commended. We learn that at some time not far distant, she will appear before the public, and will, no doubt, meet a flattering reception.

PERSONAL. Mr. M. E. Bagley, formerly of this city, but now of Buenos Ayres, South America, is on a visit to his old home, after [an absence] of Mr. Bagley went to South America [illegible] eight years ago, without money, but with a determination to be successful in life. He engaged in the manufacture of patent medicine, as it is called, in the States, and pursued his business with true Yankee energy. Success has attended him, and he is now at the head of two large establishments, one at Buenos Ayres, the other at Montevideo, and is rapidly accumulating a fortune.— His house is ever open to his countrymen, as many New Englanders who have partaken of his hospitality can testify. Success, say we, to Mr. Bagley and his excellent Hesperidina.

—We learn from the Machias Union that the lobster factory at Prospect Harbor, owned by the Port and Packing Co., was burned with its contents on the night of the 24th inst.

—The fire in Baring and Meddybemps woods has done a great damage. An extensive tract of valuable wood and timber was burned, and the Machias Union learns that the saw mill and dwelling house of [illegible] Heard, Esq. were swept away Friday last.

FIRE IN THE WOODS. There is a fire in the woods at Wesley, in the eastern part of the town, not far from the Machias road.— There is a fire on the shore in Trescott. A fire was reported Thursday as just started on Township 24 on Machias river. A crew of men was despatched to fight fire from Columbia to suppress it if possible. Fire has destroyed the wood lands in Pembroke and Perry to a fearful extent. A few days more of dry weather will finish the destruction of the growth on the eastern side of the river in Pembroke, including nearly all the green growth in Perry.

—The Kennebec Journal says Rev. M. J. Kelley, Chaplain at the Togus Asylum, leaves there about the first of next month for Portland, Oregon, where he will be stationed.

The burnt district covers about forty acres, and the space shows many temporary places for business. Temporary provision has been made for the comfort of the sufferers, but the need is pressing sore, and contributions of clothing and means for more permanent relief will be gratefully received and faithfully appropriated by the Mayor and a committee of citizens. LETTER FROM EXETER.

EXETER, Aug. 27, 1870.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier:

This is one of the best farming towns in the county. It is here where the West Agricultural Society, of Penobscot County owns extensive ground and buildings, and hold their annual Fairs. Last year I attended and found it one of the most excellent, varied and interesting Fairs I had witnessed in the State in fruits, vegetables, fancy and useful articles, the product of the ladies' skill and industry, it was surpassingly fine. This year will not be behind the best that have preceded it, if the good Lord sends rain soon and puts a stop to the ravages of the grasshopper. Corn, potatoes and beans look well, and in most cases I am told, wheat and other grains which are harvested were quite good—a full average crop; hay about one-half to three-fourths in bulk but superior in quality. I never saw the apple trees more fully loaded down than they are at present, and if nothing befalls them, our Exeter friends will be able to furnish us with about all the apples we may need the coming year. There are several central places in town. Exeter Corner, where there is a good hotel: South Exeter, East Exeter, Cutler's Mills and Exeter Mills are places of considerable trade and some manufactories.

Although the people are enterprising and thrifty in their worldly affairs, they are not wholly indifferent to religious matters. They have four meeting houses—all pretty generally used every week, except the Congregationalist at East Exeter, and that looks sadly neglected, as I am told it is. The Methodists at the Corner, the F. W. Baptist at the Centre, and the Chamberlain Meeting House at the west part of the town, are all in good condition and well filled when opened for worship. But a more varied company of believers and the other kind, I think, never got together than do here congregate: Christian Band, Adventists, Methodists, and in fact all sorts, except Mormons and Catholics; you will find at the Chamberlain House, and with those belonging to no society or church, taking part in the singing, &c. with great interest and pleasure.

I don't think the people of Exeter do a great deal for missionary purposes or pay great sums for preaching at home, but they do much for promoting social intercourse, building up good homes and thereby improving the appearance and real well-being of the community.

This town is perhaps as noted for its men of mark as anything else; although it has no bank, yet it has men who have much to do with banks and money matters; and although it has no Academy or College it turns out as many teachers and educated men and women for useful labor in various parts of our country and the world as any other town of its size. Here also is the home of our Poet, David Barker, and his brothers and sisters. Their old home is near East Exeter Mills and is frequently resorted to by the whole family. One of the brothers lives on it and keeps it in fine order. David's home is at the Corner, where he dispenses Law to his neighbors according to their needs, when not engaged in the real work of his life, composing the songs which have brought so much fame to the "Bard of Exeter." Yours, B.

BUSINESS ITEMS

MRS. MANCHESTER, the celebrated and highly popular Physician, is still at the Bangor House. She has a world-wide reputation for the many wonderful cures of diseases she has effected when all other physicians have failed. The sick and afflicted will do well to improve the opportunity of putting themselves under her treatment. She remains but a short time longer.

F. S. DAVENPORT, Teacher of Piano, Organ and Singing, 30 Main street, will be ready to receive pupils after Monday, Sept. 12. Aug. 20 6t.

Commercial travellers and others have been in the habit of getting away from Rockland as quickly as possible on account of the poor hotel. The necessity for rushing off no longer exist as Mr. G. A. LYNDE has just opened a new, pleasant, well arranged house, and is prepared to attend to the wants of the public. Give LYNDE HOTEL a call.

THE

Central Railroad, of Iowa,

235 MILES IN LENGTH,

NOW NEARLY COMPLETED.

This Company are now pushing their work forward with great rapidity, and the entire line necessary to connect St. Louis and St. Paul is graded and under contract to be finished this season. The fact that this enterprise has been undertaken by a combination of leading bankers and railroad capitalists of well known wealth, experience, and ability, insures its early completion and future success.

The road runs through the richest and most thickly settled portion of Iowa, and is built in the interests of the great Northern system of roads which centre at St. Paul. The of the Company pay 7 per cent. Gold Interest, free of Government tax, and are issued for the very small amount of $16,000 per mile. For the present, the unsold portion are offered at 95 and accrued interest. The attention of Investors is invited to the fact that the road is now nearly finished, and that the Security is therefore entitled to a high rank.

In our opinion, no class of investments has been found so uniformly safe and profitable as First Mortgages on completed railroads.

Of 225 companies operating 30,000 miles of railroad in the Northern and Western States, on which there is a bonded debt of $902,000,000, we know of but two that do not pay their interest regularly.

We believe there will be no more favorable time to sell Government, and buy really First-class Railroad Securities—such as these—than the present.

W. B. SHATTUCK,

Treasurer.

After a full examination, we have accepted an Agency for the Sale of the above First Mortgage Bonds, and desire to recommend them to our customers AS A THOROUGHLY SAFE, AS WELL AS PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

CHARLES L. FROST, }

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the earnings from the finished portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing rapidly, in time for the movement of the grain crops, which, it is estimated will double the present income of the road.

The established character of this line running as it does, through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings, warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors, as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

The bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the Company at par, and the payment of the principle is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties at present prices only return 5 per cent., and we regard the security equally safe.

THE DAISIES.

When the good year is old,
And somewhat weary,
Yet has enough of gold
To keep him cheery—
When earth, clad in her best,
Sits by her neighbor
The sun, and has a rest
From summer labor—
When prudent skies array
The world in haze,
There comes the holiday
Of all the daisies.

They are the folk that won
September's graces,
And charmed the jovial sun
With their bright faces.
He let them linger late;
When they grow sober
He gave them leave to wait
And see October,
For all the quiet land
(Ere days were duller)
Would haste to make it grand
With dear-bought color.

So all, in fields and towns,
And each new-comer,
Dressed in old-fashioned gowns
They wore in summer,
Stay yet a while, behind
Blooms that were stronger,
And play with sun and wind
A little longer,
Still happy, still alert,
Still merry-hearted—
Dropped from September's skirt
When she departed—

Till winter comes so near
His shadow chills them,
And thus doe half the cheer
September wills them;
Till their old friend the sun
Becomes forgetful,
And autumn has begun
To grow regretful,
Then they make haste to hide
Their altered faces,
And lie down side by side
In grassy places.

LEGAL STRATEGY.

Charles Lamb gives a funny account of the origin of roast pig. The owner of a litter of juvenile porkers, roasted to death by the casual burning of the family sty, in picking about among the ruins, and sorrowfully handling the crisp remains, chanced to burn his fingers. Clapping them to his mouth, he tasted a pleasure so exquisite, that it made him at once forget his pain and his loss. Pouncing on the prize, he not only dispatched the whole barbecue at a sitting, but licked his lips for more.

The story got wind, and the entire country was ablaze with burning pig pens; nor was it till many years after, that some adventurous innovator shocked the adherents of conservative cookery, by proposing a new and less expensive process of preparing the favorite dish.

It is not for us lawyers to laugh at this. None have been more prone than we, to roast pigs according to precedent. All of us can remember when, in every action to recover the value of one man's property wrongfully appropriated by another, it was necessary to allege a fictitious losing by the former, and finding by the latter; and all because the first case of the sort, hundreds of years ago, happened to be one of real losing and finding. Nay, I have even known the loss and finding of a patch of cabbages to be solemnly averred, and no lawyer thought of smiling at it.

In the department of Evidence, we have been especially slow to learn. If you want to know how cramped and artificial its rules are, just get into the witness-box to tell all you know about some case, and see how much you'll be let to tell.

Twenty years ago it was worse. No one was then admitted as a witness who was either a "party to the record" or interested, to a cent's worth, in the controversy. The consequence was a frequent impossibility of proving, by competent witnesses, undoubted facts, which neither of the litigants, had they been suffered to speak, would have thought of denying. The devices to which counsel and clients were driven, by a rule so unreasonable, were often amusing enough.

On one occasion a countryman, visiting the city, deposited his money—some two hundred dollars—with his landlord, no one being present at the time. Next day, having occasion to make some purchases, he applied for his money, and was met with a cool denial of its having been ever received. On taking legal counsel, the gentleman was astonished to learn that, being without a witness, as matters stood, his case was hopeless.

The lawyer, however, was a man of resources. Dismissing his client with directions to return in a couple of days, he called to his aid a reliable friend, to whom he privately unfolded his plans.

Acting under the lawyer's instructions, the friend presented himself at the inn as a guest, and, after securing quarters, deposited three hundred dollars in the landlord's hands, taking good care to have a witness by. Some hours after he called alone for the money, and the landlord knowing there was 'proof of' the deposit, made no difficulty in handing it over.

The same day Boniface was served with a writ for the three hundred dollars, and, on seeking advice, was told that as there was a witness to his receipt of the money, and none to its return, he had nothing for it but to pay it again. With two hundred dollars of it, the lawyer reimbursed the countryman, and kept the remainder for his fee.

Not less adroit was the march that Lije Loomis stole on the "Statute of Limitations." Lije was the factotum of Guy's Neck. He did a miscellaneous business as carpenter, cow doctor and coffin-maker—adding to his other functions that of undertaking to the county poor-house. He was withal, an easy, good-natured fellow, free to trust, and a most indulgent creditor.

Among others whom Lije had trusted to his cost was Greg Grimes, without exception the greatest promise maker and breaker in Guy's Neck. I verily believe he would if possible, have put a creditor off till the Last Judgment, and then, on the score of its being a busy day, have begged him to wait till to-morrow.

Greg had wheedled Lije with promises till the latter's claim was "outlawed." Losing patience at last, Lije took his account over to the Squire's when, to his no small discomfiture, he learned that unless he could get a new promise from his debtor, with a witness to it, he might whistle for his bill.

Such fellows as Greg always know a good deal of law, especially the sharp points of it. Greg would talk as freely, and was as full of promises as ever, when he and Lije were alone, but, before others, would either evade the subject, or else remain provokingly mum.

One day Lije drove up to Greg's door with his old gray mare and spring-wagon, a plain pine coffin—one of those flat-topped affairs deemed good enough for poor folks, being visible behind the seat.

"Mornin', neighbor," said Lije.

"Shame to you," said Greg, "Goin' to plant a pauper, I see."

"Y-a-a-s; old Boke took rather sudden leave last night, and went to try the charity of another world."

"Which is no more'n fair," said Greg, "seein' how long he's lived on the charity of this."

"Would you mind gittin' in and comin along, neighbor?" said Lije; "It's mighty dull goin' to a funeral all alone by one's self."

Greg didn't mind, and straightway mounted by Lije's side.

The two chatted away after a sort, to prove how cheerful good company can render even a grave occasion.

"I 'spose you hevn't forgot that little bill o' mine?" Lije at last took the liberty to hint.

"Not by no means," said Greg. "Let's see now—how much did you say it was? I misremember rightly."

"Even, sixty-nine dollars, besides seven years interest."

"Quite right," Greg assented; "I recollect it now."

"Ef it's at all illconvenient to pay it," said Lije, "don't you put yourself out on no account."

"I've been threatenin' to settle it for a month back," said Greg; "but times hev been tight, an'—an' how would Monday week do?"

"To a dot," answered Lije.

"I'll send it round," said Greg.

A curious sound came from the coffin. The ghost of a chuckle, Durdles would have called it. Greg gave one jump, and "lit" in an adjacent cow-pasture. Looking back he saw Lije's 'prentice, the most mischievous imp in Guy's Neck, but with plenty of sense, and of lawful age to be a witness, sitting up in the coffin laughing like mad!

Greg took in the situation at a glance. He had been duped into committing himself before a witness.

"It's a dirty, nasty, mean trick!" he exclaimed.

"What is it?" said Lije.

"Why triflin' with a body's feelin's about old Bope, makin' b'lieve he's dead!"

"An' so he is," said Lije, only I was goin' arter the buddy, instid of fetchin' it away."

Greg turned off in disgust, Lije bawling after him;

"Don't forgit Monday week, an' p'rhaps it'll save us both some trouble."

Greg didn't forget; but he has never more than half enjoyed himself at a funeral since.

Brigham Young took as many of his family as he could get into one car on an excursion the other day, and came near losing fourteen or fifteen of his wives, and three dozen children when a train ran into his special household car.

The Mayor and several officials of Aurora, Illinois, have been lodged in the Geneva jail. The cause was a complaint for trespass preferred by a man who persisted in building his fence in the road. It was declared a nuisance by the officers, and removed as such.

ADDRESS

NERVOUS

DEBILITATED,

Whose sufferings have been protracted from hidden causes, and whose cases require prompt treatment to render existence desirable: If you are suffering, or have suffered, from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urinary organs, or your kidneys frequently get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky or flocky, or is it ropy on settling? or does a thick skum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspepsia? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling on this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the luster of your eye as brilliant? The bloom on your cheek as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver-complaint?

Now, reader, self-abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men are always those whose generative organs are in perfect health? [illegible] of such men [illegible] of palpitation of the heart [illegible] never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they never become sad and discouraged; they are always polite and pleasant in the company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflated by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitutions, but also those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly cured diseases, from the effects of self-abuse and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in those organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—idiocy, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every other form of disease which humanity is heir to, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctored for all but the right one.

Diseases of these organs require the use of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to issue, in a sum or sums not exceeding in the aggregate two hundred million dollars, coupon or registered bonds of the United States, in such form as he may prescribe, and of denominations of fifty dollars, or some multiple of that sum, redeemable in coin of the present standard value, at the pleasure of the United States, after ten years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable semi-annually in such coin, at the rate of five per cent per annum, also a sum or sums not exceeding in the aggregate three hundred million dollars of like bonds, the same in all respects, but payable at the pleasure of the United States, after fifteen years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest at the rate of four and a half per cent per annum; also a sum or sums not exceeding in the aggregate one thousand million dollars of like bonds the same in all respects, but payable at the pleasure of the United States, after thirty years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest at the rate of four per cent per annum, all of which said several classes of bonds and the interest thereon shall be exempt from the payment of all taxes or duties of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal, or local authority; and the said bonds shall have set forth and expressed upon their face the above specified conditions, and shall, with their coupons, be made payable at the Treasury of the United States. But nothing in this act, or in any other law now in force, shall be construed to authorize any increase whatever of the bonded debt of the United States.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to sell and dispose of any of the bonds issued under this act, at not less than their par value for coin, and apply the proceeds thereof to the redemption of any of the bonds of the United States outstanding, and known as five-twenty bonds, at their par value, or he may exchange the same for such five-twenty bonds, par for par, but the bonds hereby authorized shall be used for no other purpose whatsoever. And a sum not exceeding one-half of one per cent of the bonds herein authorized is hereby appropriated to pay the expense of preparing, issuing, advertising, and disposing of the same.

[illegible]

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized, at any time within two years from the passage of this act, to receive gold coin of the United States on deposit for not less than thirty days, in sums of not less than one hundred dollars, with the Treasurer, or any assistant treasurer of the United States authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive the same, who shall issue therefor certificates of deposit, made in such form as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe, and said certificates of deposit shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding two and a half per cent. per annum; and any amount of gold coin so deposited may be withdrawn from deposit at any time after thirty days from the date of deposit, and after ten days' notice and on the return of said certificates. Provided, That the interest on all such deposits shall cease and determine at the pleasure of the Secretary of the Treasury; and not less than twenty-five per cent. of the coin deposited for or represented by said certificates of deposit shall be retained in the Treasury for the payment of said certificates; and the excess beyond twenty-five per cent. may be applied at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury to the payment or redemption of such outstanding bonds of the United States heretofore issued and known as the five-twenty bonds, as he may designate under the rules prescribed in the fourth section of this act; and certificates of deposit issued as aforesaid shall be paid with interest accrued thereon, as the bonds thus redeemed shall be issued.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the United States bonds purchased and now held in the Treasury in accordance with the provisions relating to a sinking fund, of section five of the act entitled "An act to authorize the issue of United States notes, and for the redemption or funding thereof, and for funding the floating debt of the United States," approved February twenty-fifth, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, and all other United States bonds which have been purchased by the Secretary of the Treasury with surplus funds in the treasury, and now held in the treasury of the United States, shall be cancelled and destroyed, a detailed record of such bonds so cancelled and destroyed to be first made in the books of the Treasury Department. Any bonds hereafter applied to said sinking fund, and all other United States bonds redeemed or paid hereafter by the United States, shall also in like manner be recorded, cancelled, and destroyed, and the amount of the bonds of each class that have been cancelled and destroyed shall be deducted respectively from the amount of each class of the outstanding debt of the United States. In addition to other amounts that may be applied to the redemption or payment of the public debt, an amount equal to the interest on all bonds belonging to the aforesaid sinking fund shall be applied, as the Secretary of the Treasury shall from time to time direct, to the payment of the public debt as provided for in section five of the act aforesaid. And the amount so to be applied is hereby appropriated annually for that purpose, out of the receipts for duties on imported goods.
